Project #11- Dress yourself

Dress yourself. Seems simple enough but even in this simple everyday act, there are lots of (design) decisions to make. And, since Sunday is Halloween, you could use dressing up for this wonderful day as your project.

Using tools of design and your personal resources, design and dress yourself.
You should make choices to portray yourself with a specific idea in mind.
What tools would you use? Texture, color etc are all at your disposal.
Who or what are you supposed to be?
How do your choices project this to someone who might see you?
How might you use this approach in solving design problems?

For the presentation:
Describe your process in making choices in your design. Use design terms.
What is your design saying?
If you are using your Halloween costume as the design for this project, you may show pictures. (instead of wearing it again) Please make sure the pictures are well lit and allow us to experience the design and of course, multiple views or a short video.
Have fun.
