Final Project - Writing the Resume' and Manifesto revisit

Just like your manifestos, writing a resume' is an ever changing and evolving process. You should always have a current resume and it should reflect what your current job interest is. turn in a copy of your resume by e-mail

Typically, a resume will have :

- your contact information
- education experience (most recent first) this would also include relevant workshops or seminars
- Experience - where possible, try to limit experience to what you want to do.
- Awards or distinctions
- Additional skills

Don't pad! It is always obvious and will often turn off potential employers. At this point in your career, we all expect you won't have enough experience to fill out a huge resume. That's not the point. The point is to take a long, hard look at what you have done and own it.

Think carefully about how you are presenting yourself. What will make you stand out from all those others?

AND

Remember the Manifesto? Take a fresh look and revisit your manifesto. Send it with your resume by Wednesday, 12/11/20 no later than 10AM. This is your final for this class.

And finally, please fill out the course evaluation. They do matter, it is your voice.
